

BAVM 2012: Call for Participation

Bay Area Vision Meeting (BAVM) 2012: Large Scale and Fine Grained Recognition

September 14th, 2012. 12:30-6:30pm

Stanford University

Poster & Demo Registration Deadline: August 20th, 2012

Attendance Registration Deadline: August 31st, 2012

Website: <http://vision.stanford.edu/bavm2012>

Invitation

The Bay Area Vision Meeting (BAVM) is an informal gathering (without a printed proceedings) of academic and industry researchers with interest in computer vision and related areas. The goal is to build community among vision researchers in the San Francisco Bay Area. Visitors and travelers from afar are also encouraged to attend and present. New research, previews of work to be shown at upcoming vision conferences, reviews of not-well-publicized work, and descriptions of "work in progress" are all welcome.

Topic and Format

The topic of BAVM 2012 is Large Scale and Fine Grained Recognition. This half-day meeting will consist of keynote speeches by invited speakers as well as demos and poster sessions (Please refer to the website for details). The meeting is open to all researchers, faculty and students.

Important Dates

Poster & Demo Registration: August 20th, 2012.

Attendance Registration: August 31st, 2012.

Meeting: 12:30-6:30pm, September 14th, 2012.

Organizers

Li Fei-Fei (Stanford University)

Jia Deng (Stanford University)